Design Intentions

- Allow modularity of body parts, No one size fits all as bodys vary.
- Allow body parts to store more than energy
- allow body parts to do more than store fat or energy
- allow external attachments via the flexible 4 ball shear points which protrude from the pocket through the skin via a protective skin sleeve to prevent infection and seepage.
- Allow multi industry use, between military, law enforcement, medical, general safety, fashion, clothing, cosplay, stunts, racing and more.
- prevent humanity from going down a devastating dna modification route, opting for a body mod route.
- use flexible thin silicone like a small baloon to create the pocket
- use a thin rigid hollow band of titanium for the zipper, so as not to allow bodily rejection but also prevent kinks as the pockets opened through the surface

Grafting

Scaffold

-Mesh is breathable and allows tissue to grow through it

-Reinforces Grown tissue by providing structure and stability

*-Extremely simple, Stretchable
-Silicone with honeycomb mesh design and hollow areas
-Titanium inner springs stretch to shape and hold shape when stretched, creating a grafted inner cast*

*-Acts like bio rebar
-biodegradables suffer from hollow tree trunk effect, this will not.*

Acts with the same purpose as a Hip replacement, Not ment to be removed, Intending to Grow Tissue in an area back and stronger. Usefull for Burn cases.

I'll stake my life on it. Vegeta x ...

Why would we as humans ethically do this?

- Shortage of doctor roles plenty of doctors and grads with phds.
- Gymtok and beauty world with huge body dysmorphia
- Everyone really wants to lose weight
- transhumanism is gaining traction
- the conditions are right, like a needle in a haystack, everyones searching for the needle
- i have been given a single match, and if i toss it, everyone, from small to large businesses burn in the haystack
- but the needle is revealed
- whoever gets that needle first
- jumpstarts humanity
- as the first ripperdoc.
- maybe they open a beauty salon, but offer "cosmetic surgery"
- suddenly cyberpunk begins as body ethics drops.

"It was either i release it publicly out of spite and earn nothing, or patent pending it, and watch every corporation look it over for 12 months before they grab it and rule the world, and im against arasaka, im a nomad, not a corpo, not a streetkid. later gonks" —SELF

"I only have the key to pandoras box, all i did was open it for everyone, better than giving they key to someone else" —SELF

"I am Agroth, God of Conviction, Resolve, and 100% Blind Trust, Bring it on." —SELF
